HOKE SMITH HERE AND NAMES BRYAN AS PARTY CHOICE

Declares Now Is Not Time to Put Forth Southerner for Presidency.

"This is not the time to nominate a Southern man for the Presidency. Mr. Bryan is the choice of the majority of Democrats for the nomination. I do not think a candidate should be chosen or excluded because he resides in a the South."

With these statements Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia today lined up for William Jennings Bryan for President and expressed his views on the desirability of putting a Southern man in the national swim. Governor Smith is in Washington attending the Rivers and Harbors Congress. He is probably the most distinguished living Southern Democrat, having served as Secretary of Interior under Cleveland, and recently attracted considerable attention and press notice because of the able, whole-

Today he had views on many subjects of vital import, but no word was breathed by him relative to the proba-bility of his being the strong Southbility of his being the strong Southerner who would romp off with the Presidential pie because he came from the Southland.

Speaking of the financial situation the governor said that it should be normal in less than sixty days.

"I believe," he said, "in an elastic currency, but the discretion of an increase ought not to be placed with the corporations engaged in the business of making money by the sale of the use of money. It would be a great help toward warding off money panies to use all the means within he reach of the Government to put a stop to gambling in stocks, bonds, and agricultural products."

Questioned as to prohibition in Georgia

Questioned as to prohibition in Georgia Questioned as to prohibition in Georgia which becomes effective January 1, Governor Smith said that prohibition has worked most satisfactorily in the large majority of countles of Georgia for years. From a moral standpoint it has lessened drunkenness and crime; from an economic standpoint it has stopped a great waste of money and human energy. The governor said he believes it would spread. In some places it will put an end to Sunday opening, in others it will, through local option, stop the sale at particular points. Prohibition may be expected soon in other Southern States.

Withing New in Pailroads

Nothing New in Railroads.

Governor Smith said there was nothing new in Georgia on the railroad question since the United States judge de-clined to make the governor or attorney general of the State parties to the bill general of the State parties to the bill filed by the railroad companies to enjoin passenger rate reduction. His administration is seeking through an able railroad commission to work out the problem of justice to both the public and the railroad.

Governor Smith had no comments to make on the President's message other than that there must be something in it judged from its bulk.

He refused to discuss any questions as to an extra session of the Georgia Legislature to put through some of the Legislature to put through some of the reform measures on which he made his campaign for governor, and he would say absolutely nothing one way or the other concerning the rumor that he would be a candidate to succeed Senator Clay from Georgia.

Doctors at the Emergency Hospital said today that the condition of William White, who shot and killed Mrs. Annie Mocre in her room, at 476 Mestreet southwest. The appointment of Dr. Charles F Whitney, former assistant medical exparticular section, although I do believe a Southern man would be stronger as a national candidate because he came from appointment has been made to date back to November 26.

They have been close friends for years, and both are popular with the hundreds of clerks employed at the Pension Office. Dr. Whitney came to Washington from Athens, Ill., in 1885 to hearted fashion in which he stirred things up in the political arena of Georgia. Governor Smith made rings around the political rings which had dominated things generally in his native State.

On Reform Wave.

In the last gubernatorial campaign he represented the Southern end of the reform waves which were exemplified by the victories of Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, and Governor Folk, of Missouri.

Dr. Helton is a native of Kentucky, having come to Washington from Sandy Hook, Ky., in 1882. In 1896 he was appointed medical examiner and nine years later he qualified for the position of surgeon. "To the best of my recollection," he said, "the negro wore a cap and a long visor," Moxley had on a cap with a short visor. The police found a watch chain belonging to the robber and the knife on the floor in the dining room.
